County to drop electrical fee cut

By TOM MILLS
NEWS EDITOR

The Green County Fiscal Court voted unanimously to strip county fees from a proposed electrical inspection ordinance at Thursday's regular April meeting.

Magistrates gave first reading to an ordinance that will set the rates for electrical inspection of residential and commercial properties.

The new ordinance will eliminate the requirement that a percentage of the fee be paid to the county.

"There is no paperwork that we have to do and there is no cost to the county since the inspectors contract to do the work," said Green County Judge-Executive John Frank.

During a special called March meeting inspectors, which are approved by the county, had requested a new county ordinance to allow the 10 percent fee their contract requires they send to the Fiscal Court be passed on to customers. The old ordinance set the fee rate and then required inspectors to send 10 percent to the county.

Longtime residential inspector Dewayne VanArsdale said after expenses, including the 10 percent paid to the Fiscal Court, there is not much financial incentive for the inspectors.

The new ordinance, which is scheduled for a second reading April 30 set the cost for an electrical inspection permit at $20, residential and small commercial inspections at $60 per trip and large commercial inspections at 1 percent of the contract. The emergency inspection fee will be $75.

The ordinance is scheduled for second reading at a special called meeting tomorrow. Also on the agenda is first reading of the Fiscal Court's 2-15-16 budget and review and discussion of the recently passed insurance premium tax ordinance.

White Goods amnesty returns

By TOM MILLS
NEWS EDITOR

A popular Green County Fiscal Court program to help local residents with spring cleaning tasks starts tomorrow.

The annual Green County Fiscal Court White Goods Amnesty program, which allows city and county residents to bring unlimited amounts of waste metal, appliances and other items to a central location is set for April 23-25 at the former Kentucky Burley warehouse site in Columbia Avenue.

"This is a great opportunity for spring cleaning and we are proud to be able to offer this service to the community," said Green County Judge-Executive John Frank.

Appliances, furniture, junk cars and batteries; almost anything except paint, oil, tires, propane tanks, garbage, asphalt shingles, tree limbs, lumber, or any hazardous material may be dropped off at the concrete slab next to K & S Liquidation from 7 a.m.-4 p.m. CDT Thursday and Friday and from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday.

Council looks at possible leash law

By TOM MILLS
NEWS EDITOR

City officials are exploring the possibility of a city-wide leash law in response to citizen complaints of dogs attacking other dogs, with humans sometimes caught in the middle.

City Councilwomen Sandi Moran and Emily Jeffries, both of whom have been appointed to a committee to study the matter, said that in recent years in the city there have been at least seven dogs attacked by other dogs and four of those have resulted in the deaths of the attacked dogs. In one instance a woman out walking her dog was injured in an attack and in another a dog was attacked while its owner was holding it in her arms.

Currently there is no blanket requirement that pets be restrained since most behave themselves. In 2007 the City Council adopted an ordinance to address domestic animals creating a nuisance. That ordinance amended the city's nuisance ordinance to define behavior by dogs, cats and other pets where they can be deemed a public nuisance. The ordinance specifically says that individual pets that have not been deemed a public nuisance are not required to be restrained.

Under that ordinance, it falls on members of the public to report potential nuisance animals through formal complaint to the City of Greensburg code enforcement officer at City Hall or to the Greensburg Police Department. The animal is then prohibited from running at large. The owner of the animal may be cited and the animal may be impounded if it is later found at large.

"The public needs to know that if there is an issue they need to call City Hall, make a complaint, give a description of the dog, tell if they know who owns it and then it can be enforced.

Moran said enforcing the existing ordinance would go a long way toward resolving some of the issues.

"It is incumbent on the citizens to call in and if this is enforced we may not need the leash law," she said. "If

Youthfest begins Friday

Special to the R-H

For the past 11 years, Youthfest has been held as a community youth revival to help share God's love with others in the community.

This year's event, themed, "Anchored," is set to kick-off Friday, April 24 at 6 p.m. CDT at Bethlehem Baptist Church. The event will continue Saturday at 6 p.m. at Greensburg Baptist Church and Sunday morning at Bethlehem Baptist Church at 9:45 a.m. before wrapping up at 5 p.m. Sunday at Green County Middle School. Everyone is invited to attend.

This year's featured speaker is Billy Curle. There will be guest speakers and refreshments each night as well as 2015 Youthfest t-shirts given away to all who attend while supplies last.

"In November, when we sat our youth leadership team down to begin planning Youthfest, we gave each of them an opportunity to tell us what they thought we should focus on during the weekend," Leah Hayes said, "As we went around the table every one of them had the same answer. Every one of them wanted to focus on hope. The adults at the meeting could do nothing but sit in amazement because we had also felt the need for this to be incorporated."

Bethlehem Baptist Church youth ministry felt the need to host a youth revival 11 years ago that would include many churches in the community. By 2007, the crowd outgrew the Bethlehem sanctuary, quickly making Youthfest a community revival. Organizers have watched in amazement as God poured out His love and anointment during the Youthfest weekends.

"Our theme, Anchored comes from Hebrews 6:9 'We have this hope as an anchor for the soul, firm and secure.'" Hayes said. "Life will happen, storms will come, and we will all face difficult days, but God will be our anchor in the storm. He is our strength and refuge. He is our hope. Our prayer is that you will join us this weekend and that we will all be reminded of that hope that anchors our soul."

"Right here in central Kentucky is a good location, right in the center of the state and we've got creeks, hills, hollers, tight cedar sections, rocky spots and flat spots and everybody who comes here says the terrain is great."

Russell Creek Off-Road features opportunities for cross country courses, open woods courses and has a dedicated motocross course designed with spectators in mind.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

I find it most disconcerting that the Kentucky General Assembly sees fit to allow a bill aiding Kentucky's heroin addicts while completely ignoring the medical marijuana bills assisting thousands of Kentucky's ailing children and others. These children suffer needlessly due to the antiquated reasoning of our elected officials. It is time to do away with this message and archaic reasoning and move Kentucky into the 21st century. Kentucky's population is declining due to the number of families moving to enlightened states where their children can receive proper medical care while others refuse to move to Kentucky for the same reason. Incidentally, as usual, it is up to the tax payers to foot the bill for heroin users clean needles and other programs. I feel the majority will do so under protest. I believe a majority of Kentucky citizens would applaud any bill bringing relief and a chance for a normal life for children. Consider the revenue this would add to Kentucky's coffers.

It is past time for our elected lawmakers to get off their butts, stand up and change this injustice to our children.

Sincerely,
Bill Miller

Despoiling the Earth

The land must not be sold permanently, because the land is mine and you reside in my land as foreigners and strangers.
Throughout the land that you hold as a possession, you must provide for the redemption of the land.

Leviticus 25:23-24

While there may be legitimate differences of opinion about how much environmental degradation we are wreaking on our planet, there is little doubt that we are causing harm when half a million people can't drink the water in their area, as happened last summer in Ohio. I remember as a child in the 1960s when Lake Erie “died” and when the Cuyahoga River caught on fire. We brought Lake Erie back from the brink, but we have short memories. The Chesapeake Bay regularly suffers from fertilizer runoff and last year the Gulf of Mexico had an oxygen-deprived dead zone that was the size of New Jersey. Surely we can take better care of our planet, and should remember that the air we breathe and the water we drink is essential to our survival. In the late 1960s when environmental concerns came to the forefront in this country the earth's population was approximately 3.5 billion people. We now have double that number, with over 7 billion people inhabiting our planet. Surely this calls for some careful thought about our impact on the planet. The earth is a gift from God and we have a duty as stewards of creation to take care of it. We should do what we can personally to be more environmentally conscious, and also to consider getting involved in efforts to persuade businesses and government leaders to take better care of our environment.

MAKING SENSE OF INVESTING

Financial Focus

Can You Free Yourself from Some Investment Taxes?

April 24 has been designated Tax Freedom Day for 2015. Tax Freedom Day, calculated by the Tax Foundation, is the day when the nation as a whole has earned enough money to pay off its total tax bill for the year. So it may be a good time to review your own situation to determine if you can “free” yourself from some investment-related taxes in the future.

Of course, Tax Freedom Day is something of a fiction, in practical terms, because most people pay their taxes throughout the year via payroll deductions. Also, you may not mind paying your share of taxes because your tax dollars are used in a variety of ways — such as law enforcement, food safety, road maintenance, public education and so on — that, taken together, have a big impact on the quality of life in this country. Nonetheless, you may well want to look for ways to reduce those taxes associated with your investments, leaving you more money available to meet your important goals, such as a comfortable retirement.

Fortunately, it isn’t really that difficult to be a tax-conscious investor, as some of the best retirement-savings vehicles have built-in tax advantages. For starters, depending on your income level, your contributions to a traditional IRA may be tax-deductible, so the more you put in (up to the maximum of $5,500, or $6,500 if you’re 50 or older), the lower your annual taxable income. Plus, your earnings grow on a tax-deferred basis.

If you meet certain income guidelines, you may be eligible to contribute to a Roth IRA. The contribution limits for a Roth IRA are the same as those for a traditional IRA, but the tax treatment of your earnings is different. In fact, your Roth IRA earnings can grow tax free, provided you don’t take withdrawals before age 59½ and you’ve had your account at least five years. (Roth IRA contributions are not tax-deductible, however.)

Even if you have an IRA, you can probably also participate in your employer-sponsored retirement plan, such as a 401(k), a 403(b) or a 457(b). You typically contribute “pretax” dollars to these types of retirement plans, so your contributions will lower your annual taxable income. Plus, you’ll benefit from tax-deferred earnings. And employer-sponsored plans have much higher contribution limits than an IRA; in 2015, you can put in up to $18,000 to a 401(k) or similar plan, or $24,000 if you are 50 or older.

Beyond contributing as much as you can afford to tax-advantaged retirement plans, how else can you take greater control of your investment-related taxes? One move is to avoid frequent buying and selling of investments held outside your IRA and 401(k). If you sell investments that you’ve held for less than one year, your profit will be taxed as ordinary income, with a rate as high as 39.6%. But if you hold investments at least one year before selling them, you’ll just pay the long-term capital gains rate, which is 15% for most taxpayers (20% for high earners). So, from a tax standpoint, it pays to be a “buy-and-hold” investor.

Taking full advantage of your IRA and 401(k) and holding your investments for the long term aren’t the only tax-smart moves you can make — but they can give you a good start on making investing less of a “taxing” experience.

LWC talent on display this week

The academic and artistic talents of Lindsey Wilson College students and faculty is on display until April 27.

The annual Academic Celebration Week will include talks by LWC students about their undergraduate research projects, four performances of Julius Caesar and the annual Spring Music Gala, featuring Mozart's Coronation Mass.

On Thursday night, 2001 alumnus and trustee Chris Estes will be the keynote speaker at the 2015 Founders' Day Dinner, which will begin at 6 p.m. CT at Cranmer Dining Center.

"Outside of commencement week, this is one of the highlights of the school year," said LWC President William T. Luckey Jr. "It's wonderful to enjoy such a wide variety of academic programs, and learn what students and faculty have been collaborating on this school year. It's also a reminder of what a gifted and talented student body we have at Lindsey Wilson."

GCMS Volleyball teams win against Casey Co.

ANGELINA ALCOTT
SPORTS WRITER

Green County Middle School Volleyball team calls for order on the court and wins both seventh and eighth grade games against Casey County.

“Our strength is working as a team. The girls are very supportive of each other, they work well together, and they help each other out on the court and off.” first year GCMS volleyball coach Kaitlyn Taylor said. “They are a very energetic group of girls and this really helps them during a game. Something we lack in right now is confidence. These girls are so young and some have never played volleyball, or a sport, before. This is something that we are slowly gaining, but takes time with experience.”

The next game is Thursday, April 23 at Hart County.

Lindsey Sneed goes for an attack on the ball while players Hallie Griffiths, Lilly Squires and Kelsey Henderson cover her.

Green County’s Savannah Judd passes the ball to teammate.

GCMS Volleyball player Graysie Jaggers dives to dig a ball.

Golfers aren’t always gentlemen

Golf is described as a gentleman’s game, but, unfortunately, golfers don’t always fit that description.

Surely most of you have played with that person who always cuts corners, if you will, so as to win those few extra bucks or to shave a couple of strokes off their score.

They don’t bend the rules; they intentionally cheat.

I’m not talking about picking up a gimme putt or perhaps moving the ball in the fairway. Let’s look at ways some people try to gain an advantage.

Years ago, it was not unusual to walk over to a golf cart and see a big jar of Vaseline in the wire container behind the seat. Big-time gamblers would smear the Vaseline into the clubface to fill the grooves. The purpose? It would reduce the spin imparted on the ball at impact, resulting in straighter shots.

Then there is your opponent who always gains a few inches when he marks his ball on the green. How often have you seen a friend drop his marker onto the green and it lands in front of the ball, and he leaves it there. Of course, that’s the same guy who has to move a marker from someone’s line of putting. He lines his putter up at a target when he moves his mark. When he moves his marker back, he invariably uses a different target to move the ball forward before putting.

Golf carts have not only taken some of the social fun out of the game since the chatter among a foursome is reduced from walking together down the fairway, but they’ve also provided cover for the player who has a bad lie in the rough.

Tee Shots

Dennis George

Beware of your friend who ALWAYS parks his cart between his ball and your position so that you can’t see him nudging his ball into a better lie without being noticed. You can’t accuse him of anything if you don’t have a good view.

How many times have you played in a group that spent a considerable amount of time looking for an errant shot? Everyone knows the general area that the ball land but it can’t be found. Yet the golfer who hit the shot walks thirty yards ahead and forty yards to the right and declares the ball found. Chances are that he dropped an extra ball down while you weren’t looking.

Now that’s probably the same golfer who hits a ball into the woods and before you can walk over to help him find the ball, you hit a whack and the ball comes out cleanly.

Do you ever laugh when someone is under a bush and keeps taking practice swings to judge the angle of attack that he must take to avoid hitting branches? He swings a few times and then it appears that he takes a real cut at the ball. Misses everything.

“That was a practice swing,” he sheepishly says while bending down to look at the shot once again.”

This last example is one of my favorites, although it’s limited to opponents who may take several strokes on a hole.

Two of my buddies walked off a green one day and both had been all over the place on this particular hole.

“What did you make,” one asked.

“You tell me first,” the other replied.

“I made an eight,” the first golfer said.

“Okay, I made a seven,” his friend said.

“You did not, you made a nine,” came the reply.

Oh well.

Parrott named MSC Champion of Character

Campbellsville University has an unprecedented sixth hand seventh Mid-South Conference Champions of Character this school year when men and women's golfers, Michael Newton and Olivia Parrott, were named tonight as the 2014-15 recipients.

The honors were bestowed at the annual conference banquet held at the Maywood County Club, site of the three-day MSC tournament going on now through Tuesday.

Champions of Character is a National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics initiative that recognizes athletes who mirror the core values — integrity, respect, responsibility, sportsmanship and servant leadership.

"This is certainly an exciting year for Tiger athletics," said Director of CU Athletics Rusty Hollingsworth. "Not only are we experiencing a great year athletically, but to have so many of our athletes recognized with the Champions of Character award in their respective sport is very rewarding. Congratulations to each of the individual winners."

Parrott, a sophomore from Greensburg, is a leader on her team, according to her coach, and has accumulated a 3.62 GPA through her three semesters at CU.

Parrott is active at Greensburg Baptist Church and has traveled to Haiti on a mission trip. She has used that experience to promote mission work to others. She and teammate Ashley Goodin led the team in its efforts to promote Operation Christmas Child on campus and she regularly leads devotional time with her teammates.

"This is just a portion of her servant leadership qualities," said coach Kim Goodin. "She is a fine young lady and a great teammate."

Additionally, Parrott has worked as a volunteer at the Don Fightmaster Golf Day, with the Green Tee Program, Red Cross Bloodmobiles, and Thanksgiving Meal Delivery.

She likes to quote James 1:19-20, and did so to the committee of athletics directors: "Everyone should be quick to listen, slow to speak, and slow to become angry, because human anger does not produce the righteousness that God desires."

Newton, a senior from Bowling Green, has been CU's most consistent male golfer and sports a 3.88 GPA. He will pursue a physical therapy degree at yet-to-be-named college.

Lady Tigers sit in second at MSC Championship

By JORDAN ALVES
CU SPORTS WRITER

Campbellsville women's golf overcame a steady downpour to sit in second place after round one of the Mid-South Conference Championships at Maywood Country Club.

The Lady Tigers (306) is four strokes behind the leader, University of the Cumberlands (302).

Campbellsville's top five all carded scores at 80 or lower with Ashley Goodin leading the way, firing a one-over, 73. Goodin rolled in three birdies, 12 pars, one bogey and one double bogey for her first-round score.

Anna-Marie Hyatt sits in fourth place with a four-over, 76. Hyatt was even through her first nine holes but fell off the pace going four-over in her opening four holes on the back. She did birdie the par three, No. 8 but gave that shot back with a bogey on her final hole.

Olivia Parrott overcame seven bogeys and also birdied the par three No. 8 — her lone birdie — shooting a 78. Reigning MSC Champion, Cassidy Scantland finished with seven bogeys as well to sit in ninth place. Rachel Carter rounded out the CU top five with an eight-over 80 to sit tied for 10th.

Senior Mikayla Smith, the lone senior for the Lady Tigers, sits in 16th place after a first-round 80. Two holes kept Smith out of carding a respectable round with a double bogey on hole

No. 12 and triple on No. 17.

Campbellsville finished ahead of the field in par 3's (+1) and par 4's (+21) scoring but was four-over on the par 5's. University of the Cumberlands took advantage of the longer holes and finished four-under on all the par fives.

Cumberland University (316) sits in third place, 10 strokes behind Campbellsville. University of Pikeville (332), Lindsey Wilson College (334), Georgetown College (375) and St. Catharine College (411) round out the rest of the team scores.

Cumberlands' Rachel Pingleton sits in first place after firing the only round under par. Pingleton shot a two-under, 70 with be shortened to 7.5 miles and it still proved to be challenging with the fastest lap turned in at 23:27, an average speed just over 19 mph.

Many riders on Sunday found the muddy course extremely challenging with some riders taking one hour, 40 minutes to complete their first lap and several failing to complete even one lap in the timed race that lasted just over two hours.

Curtis Ryan, the Fairdale, Ky., resident who won the 30-and-over A class and finished third overall on a Yamaha, said the start of the race wasn't too bad, but the mud got deeper the longer the race went on. Two separate downpours showered the course while the bike race was underway.

"When it got thick, I got tired and it wore me out," said Ryan, who was the top finishing Kentucky rider in the motorbike classes. "But it had a good flow to the course and (despite the rain) it was a pretty good track other than some of the hills."

Overall winner of the bike races on Sunday, Jordan Ashburn, a pro class rider from Cookeville, Tenn., set the pace by completing five laps to take the checkered flag on a Yamaha.

"The layout of the course was good and I finally got things worked out and got going good," he said.

Beautiful conditions greeted UTV and ATV racers on Saturday at the Russell Creek Off-Road Compound.

On Saturday, organizers and competitors said the courses were challenging and exciting. Technical challenges and numerous passing opportunities on a 2.5-mile open woods course for ATV and UTV classes thrilled competitors and spectators alike.

A peewee course was set at 1 mile and youth classes run at 3 miles.

More than 500 people, some from as far away as Maryland, Minnesota and Florida, spent the weekend enjoying the hospitality of Russell Creek Off-Road Compound and the good food at the on-site enclosed concession stand which was especially popular during Sunday's downpours.

The 2015 Mid America Cross Country Series is be a 10 race schedule. The race was originally scheduled for March but was postponed due to inclement weather.

Series organizers became interested in the Russell Creek facility when Green County native Ezra Hickerson raced in the series and spoke about the course his family operates.

"He raced with them last year at an event and saw they put on a pretty good event, so he contacted them over the winter," Rickey Hickerson said of his son's initiative. "They came down, checked out the property, acted like they liked it and here they are."

Russell Creek Off-Road Compound is already high on the list of numerous organizations, with four series set to hold races at the facility this season. Bluegrass Extreme UTV will race May 23 and again Oct. 11, the OMA Motocross Nationals will roll into town May 30-31 and Motovated MX Series will hold three events Aug. 16, Sept. 12 and Oct. 10.

County to clean up dumps

By TOM MILLS
NEWS EDITOR

The Green County Fiscal Court will use grants to clean up illegal dumps in two areas of the county.

Green County Solid Waste Coordinator Terri Talbott said the county received a 2015 Illegal Open Dump Remediation grant from the Division of Waste Management to address dumps on KY 218 and Union Church Road. The total grant of $19,966.16, along with a 25 percent in-kind county match, will be used to clean up the dumps that threaten nearby waterways.

The KY 218 dump is 80 by 125-feet long, 15 feet deep and is located in a drainage ditch 50 feet from the Little Barren River. It contains household garbage, furniture, appliances, tires and demolition debris. Nunn Excavating is the low bidder.

The Union Church Road dump, which was cleaned up March 20-24 by county employees and Nunn Excavating, was over a steep embankment on a tributary to Little Brush Creek and was scattered over an area approximately 50x80 feet.
